My True Pursuit

*In the rush of life, I chase dreams yet to gleam;
Dedicated to research, where wonders bear;
Wishing my name will shine, in the hall of fame;
In eyes that see my worth, my spirit's esteemed.*

*But if fate whispers, leading my way to you,
To a quiet town, where sunrise paints the hue.
I'd choose a simple life, in morning's dew,
In a humble home, where love grows true.*

*Whichever path you wish, I'll walk it, too.
Beside you, I'll unravel life's complex raze,
Crafting each moment into a warm blaze.
In mundane joys, our connection finds its muse.*

*This pursuit, my heart's honest revelation,
In love, finding life's truest foundation.
With you, through each day's gentle rotation,
Till time's end, in your embrace, my final destination.*
